

Free Trinity Navajo Mission March 2018

Rev. Dennis and Marie Gardner began a work in 1972 that has impacted the lives of untold number of Navajo people down across the years as missionaries to Gallup, New Mexico. God has received both of them to their eternal rewards and we sincerely miss them. We pray God's blessing and comfort on their families.

However, God's work goes on! Sister Wesaw, a Navajo holiness lady, has been a friend of the Gardners for quite some time and is driving over 200 miles every weekend to help with preaching and being a shepherd to the flock there at the mission.

Just a few weeks ago, the mission board traveled to be there and spent time planning for future years of ministry in this great work. They also worked on various projects that needed done, like replacing waste oil burners in the furnaces with new fuel oil burners, giving them a thorough cleaning and setting them up for cleaner operation with the help of Roger Russell, the man who originally installed them. Thermostats and zoning valves still need reworked and we do have a man scheduled to do that soon.

The mission board also met for elections with these results: Dennis Gardner, Jr. President, Rev. Andy Cooley Senior Vice President, Garland Hall Secretary, Rev. Cliff Sarver and Caleb Kaufman as directors. It is a delight to work together with men who carry on the same vision as our founder had. There are great days ahead.

We are extremely thankful for the help that Caleb and Denise (grand-daughter of Rev. Gardner) Kaufman provide at the mission. They are an intricate part of the mission and general oversight of activities. They help with the song leading, playing the piano, and special music in the services. Their interest is to work with the Navajo young people.

The support for the mission is provided by people who have a compassion for souls and especially the Navajo people. It is a faith ministry. Your continued giving is much appreciated and is necessary for the continued work among the people of this area.

We, as a board, ask for your prayers as we endeavor to fulfill the original purpose of the work.
